

Watermelon seed have been found in ancient Egyptian tombs.

Then one-fifth of the advertising in American periodicals deals some nuptial of cleanliness.

Chinese Had Women Army
1853 an army of the Chinese consisted of about half a million women. These were collected from various parts of the country and sent into brigades of thirteen thousand under female officers. Of these, thousands were picked out and paraded in the city. They were compelled to undergo the surgery of digging moats, making roads and erecting latrines.

"I have eaten nothing for a week."
"Stomach trouble."
"No, nurse."—Pagen Coates. Yours

